

Heads or Tails?

Directions: Think of the characters in act 1, scene 2, as subjects of coins. On one side would appear the person's name and the profile of a head, perhaps of a god. Determine whether the character would be arrogant enough to depict himself or if he would choose a god. How would his name be represented? On the other side would be key symbols. Consider what symbols would most effectively represent the character's achievements or reputation. Use the chart to organize your thoughts about what would appear on each side of the coin. Then create one or more coins to express your ideas. You can use clay, cardboard, or any other appropriate medium for your final products.

Character	Heads	Tails
Caesar
Brutus
Cassius
Antony		